

2

Let  $f(x)$  represent an unknown distribution of mass for an object along  $x$ . You are given its Fourier transform  $F(s)$ .

Is it possible to determine the object's center of mass from  $F(s)$  without taking the inverse Fourier transform? Explain.